

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS :

1. A portable type irrigator comprising a suction hose, an air pump and a nozzle injection part by which the liquid contained in the liquid reservoir is injected directly into 5 the interior of the large intestine through the anus or the interior of the vaginal canal, characterized in that the above suction hose is integrally connected to a flange of the liquid supplying body, the above nozzle injection part be connected to a connecting member of the liquid supplying body in a spiral manner, and the air pump be mounted to a lower side of the entrance/exit passage for liquid communicated with a supplying passage 10 of the liquid supplying body.
2. The portable type irrigator according to claim 1, wherein the above nozzle injection part has a plurality of hole arranged in a radial direction at a front end of the nozzle injection part.